Alternative Collect

Generous God, you give us gifts and make them grow: though our faith is small as mustard seed, make it grow to your glory and the flourishing of your kingdom; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Post Communion Sentence

Lord God, whose Son is the true vine and the source of life, ever giving himself that the world may live: may we so receive within ourselves the power of his death and passion that, in his saving cup, we may share his glory and be made perfect in his love; for he is alive and reigns, now and for ever.

For here we have no permanent home, but we are seeking after the city which is to come.

Hebrews 13.14

This is one of those occasions when the pewsheet deadline come before a much anticipated event. Will folk be waking up on Sunday morning with the same eager anticipation if Croatia are to play France or will England have won this (Wednesday) evening so that the country is going crazy in the expectation that football will be coming home? There is of course a division here: those for whom there is little or no interest at all in a game, and those for whom the World Cup has become all absorbing. One of the good things however, is that there is a sense of belonging. The shared experience and common identity brings people together. Gareth Southgate's team also appear to be likeable and are seen to enjoy playing which makes it more desirable to belong. At its worst, the football supporting mentality can be divisive with an us and them mentality, creating exclusive communities. It is why there have been issues of sexist, racist and homophobic abuse on the terraces. At its best there is a genuine coming together of community, and one sincerely hopes that on Sunday afternoon the country will all be able to feel that we belong and that we can share in a common purpose and desire to "bring it home".

Religion too can suffer from the same exclusive tendencies. However at the heart of our belief is the knowledge that we are each children of God. Our belonging is far deeper than we conceive. Maybe religion suffers because it proclaims something so radical, so far reaching, that it seems unattainable. Rather than dreaming about 11 men kicking a ball around and hoping that they will bring it home, we proclaim that each of us belongs to God and to one another, that on earth we have no permanent home but that God will bring us home to the city which is to come.
