Alternative Collect.

Almighty God, who in the passion of your blessed Son made an instrument of painful death to be for us the means of life and peace: grant us so to glory in the cross of Christ that we may gladly suffer for his sake; who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever.

Post Communion Sentence.

Faithful God, whose Son bore our sins in his body on the tree and gave us this sacrament to show forth his death until he comes: give us grace to glory in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, for he is our salvation, our life and our hope, who reigns as Lord, now and for ever.

Last week in the pew sheet news Michelle talked about the pause that can come with the summer holidays, a chance to recharge and prepare for what lies ahead. Well here we are, back to the hustle and bustle of every day life and with many of our holidays seeming like a long distant memory!

It could be very easy, if we allow it to, to view the next few months as just a series of tasks and events which will inevitably lead up to Christmas celebrations; harvest is here, then remembrance, then on to advent. On top of this we all have a variety of other things on our 'to do list' that need 'checking off', whether it be work deadlines, hospital appointments, homework assignments or household chores, the list can seem endless. If we wait to rest only when the list is done, then we could be waiting a very long time. Of course we need to prioritise things daily, but actually are there things that can wait? Can we put some stuff on hold while we sit, pause and listen to God?

Finding the calm in the chaos can be challenging and requires a huge amount of discipline in itself, yet it is essential for our mental, physical and spiritual wellbeing. I tend to relax through listening to quiet meditation music, however everyone is different. Spend some time this week thinking about what helps you to calm down and how you'll ensure you carve out time to be still.
